TECH UNITED COMMENTS

by JOHN SARTORI

As president of Tech United I wish to thank the yearbook staff: especially the editor, Joe Czachor; his assistant, Mike Uljarevich; business manager, Herb Stammler; the staff committee and its chairman Mr. Stefani for their splendid work. Special mention should be made, too, of the work of the Camera Club, Carl Pardy and Mr. G.

Aitchison, without whose help publication would have been practically impossible.

I'm sure most of you will remember this school year 1961-1962 in the future. On behalf of myself and the rest of the executive, I wish all the students pleasant memories in their yearbook, "The Towers."

YEAR BOOK STAFF

LEFT TO RIGHT: Joe Czachor, Mr. J. Stefani, Andy Hellenbart, Herb Stammler, Mike Uljarevic.

EDITORIAL NOTE

by JOE CZACHOR

Being Editor-in-Chief this year has given me a wonderful experience. I wish to take this opportunity to express my thanks to all the people who have devoted their time to this publication. My sincere thanks go to Mr. Stefani and

Mr. Buie. Most of all I would like to thank Carl Pardy and his assistants who took the pictures, and Mrs. Worthy who devoted so much of her time to do the typing.

Principal's Message

The editor, his staff and advisors are to be commended for their effort in producing another edition of "The Towers." Only those who have laboured at the many details can appreciate the amount of work involved, but I am sure they are also the ones who will most benefit. I know our yearbook will serve to all our students as a reminder of happy days during 1961-1962.

Featured in these pages are the Graduates of 1962. Students and members of the teaching staff join me in wishing them success and happiness in the years to come.

LITERARY

AND IT CAME TO PASS—FIRST PRIZE ESSAY

by GARRY LARKING, 11B-C

The pedulum of time ticked away the precious moments of hope and despair. The United Nations, though dwindling in world authority for a number of years, had succeeded in obtaining a two-day truce between the two global powers, who were about to engage in atomic warfare. Now, only an hour of peace remained. Many plans for the prevention of world devastation had been previously bandied about, but all had been labelled either impractical or inadequate. Only one was left to be tried, and on that one slim chance was based the hopes of millions the world over. Perhaps man's infallible creation, the electronic brain, could give forth an answer; the world hoped and waited with bated breath.

In the cabinet room of the United Nations, representatives of every independent country of the world had gathered in the hope of solving this critical conundrum. Men of varied colour argued over the plight of world affairs until hysteria raged through the room. The din subsided with the appearance of a white-haired, decrepit scientist, who shuffled slowly across the floor to the electronic brain. In the background could be heard radio and television announcers broadcasting every moment vividly. The scientist, without any sign of the tension in evidence around him, fed data into the machine. When the basic information had been absorbed, the crucial question was devoured: how can man live peacefully without war?

Millions of lights ignited spasmodically and the candle of time sputtered with each passing second. Suddenly the clamor of the mechanized giant ceased. Silent expectancy fell over the polygot throng. This was dramatically shattered by the sound of the pulsating ticker tape—The machine was emitting an answer—An answer anxiously awaited by the populace of the world. Dignitaries leaned forward, television and radio microphones eased closer; these moments would either make or break the world. Emotionless, the scientist read the written words: "I am the Lord thy God. Behold, I say unto you, that hadst thou obeyed these rules, Earth would have remained in peace: (1) Thou shalt have no other gods before Me. (2) Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image. (3) Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain. (4) Remember the Sabbath Day, to keep it holy. (5) Honour thy mother and thy father. (6) Thou shalt not kill. (7) Thou shalt not commit adultery. (8) Thou shalt not steal. (9) Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour. (10) Thou shalt not covet anything which is thy neighbour's"

The men in the cabinet room were awe-struck. People, the world over, went to their knees and prayed; The message had been sent by God!

The momentary peace was shattered by atomic bombs fragmenting around the globe. The truce had expired. Judgement Day had come. Biblical prophecy was truth, and it came to pass . . .

TELEVISION—SECOND PRIZE ESSAY

by HOWARD WENNER, 9H-C

Television is a subject which could be put to debate; it has strong points and weak ones. It is a medium which could be employed to a tremendous extent in the field of education if people only cared enough. I realize that television today is immensely misused for the showing of non-intellectual westerns and detective movies. For this reason I believe that the government should use its power to smash the monopoly which the larger motion picture corporations have over television networks. These giant organizations should be required by law to produce some mature, educational programs. Fortunately, there are among existing television material several informative and worthwhile programs of this type necessary to improve our television culture. Two of these are: "The Twentieth Century", which is presently running a series of two films on mental illness; and "The Armstrong Circle Theatre", which recently showed a film on teenage drug addiction in New York City. Viewing of such mature programs is beneficial from the educational standpoint to all who watch. I am convinced that we need more material of this kind and standard to awaken the people to the many serious problems which exist in our society. If improvements are not made in this direction we will be left in the backwash of television intellectualism.

IMAGINATION—FIRST PRIZE POEM

by JOE CZACHOR, 12C

That bottomless pit between now and then,
Where angels stoke fires and devils play harps;
Where up is down, and down is up;
Where a thimble holds infinity;
A world where the universe cannot contain the microscopic.
Where the impossible is possible,
And the unattainable is easily grasped;
Yet this is a world very near.
It is around the corner from reality,
Just across the street from sensibility.
This is imagination—

WINTER MORNING—SECOND PRIZE POEM

by NINO MEDORO, 11C

As I looked through my window this morning,
My eyes met a wonderful sight.
The earth was transformed as by magic
Some fairies had wrought in the night.
Trees sparkled like gems in the sunlight;
T'was a grandeur I knew would not last;
And I watched the bright rays of the morning
Destroying each gem as they passed.

HONOURABLE MENTION—BEAUTY EVERYWHERE

by PAUL BROWNING, 9A-B

Is there anything as beautiful
As the lovely maple tree,
Standing silently on a hill
Dressed in its finery?
Is there anything as beautiful
As the most common sight:
The coming of the downy snow
Dressed everything in white?
Is there anything as beautiful
As the coming of the spring,
Displaying the tiny flower buds
While the happy children sing?
There is nothing as wonderful,
Not anywhere on the earth,
As flowers, birds, and bees and things,
As Nature and its birth.

HONOURABLE MENTION—WINTER'S CHANGES

When winter comes, and summer goes
From swords of grass to spreads of snows,
The soft white blanket covers fields,
And rooftops, lawns and gardens shields.
Leaves from trees are long, long gone,
When snow and ice are coming on.
When winter's grip is at its height,
Along comes spring to put up fight.
It overcomes its icy foe
And buds on trees begin to show.
This winter runs and shows no shame;
The next will come as the last one came.

HONOURABLE MENTION—WINTER NIGHT

by ANDREW KILLIAN, 12C-D

As I was looking
Out the window,
On a wintry night
I saw the glimmering street light.
It reminded me of a star
Out beyond the horizon, so far.
As the snowflakes flickered by
And fell to the ground
They formed a carpet,
So white, and light.

HONOURABLE MENTION—A MOTHER

by CARMEN NACCARATO, 12C-C

A Mother is a knowing look
A heart within your own,
The voice you want to hear
The hand you used to hold.
A Mother understands your moods
And laughs at things you say,
Or sees you when you're at your worst
But loves you anyway.
Of her you should be mindful
Until she's gone above;
Or should be, if you are a son,
Who's understood her love.
A Mother is the someone
You could write a book about,
The one you love to be with
And hate to be without.

HONOURABLE MENTION—A SOLDIER GOING TO REST

by HENRY SIWEK, 9D-C

Move on weary soldier,
With gun in hand,
And a prayer on your lips,
Push on, through sun and heat,
Through rain and mud.
The enemy is somewhere,
With blood and destruction in his eye.
Your comrades are getting restless,
And night is coming on.
You soon will be at rest—
With the bright, clean sky as your roof,
The blood covered ground as your bed.

HONOURABLE MENTION—THE LITTLE SPRUCE TREE

by ROBERT COLLINS, 10C-B

The little green spruce
Got tired of standing,
And thought he would go for a spin;
He pulled up his roots,
And put on his boots,
And started out with a grin.
He trudged along,
Singing a song,
Till his home was far from sight,
He came to a willow
As soft as a pillow
And settled down for the night.
He awoke with a start,
From a noise in the dark,
And made up his mind right away
To hurry back home;
Never more to roam,
And there he sits to this day.

BIRDS TO BEWARE OF

Unfortunately, these species are not extinct, so while you're driving, keep a sharp lookout for these birds—and be sure that no one thinks you're one of them

NOCTURNAL DIMWIT
(drives in the dark with parking lights)

ONE-EYED NIGHTHAWK
(ignores his burned-out headlamp)

HILL-PASSING SWIFT
(ignores no-passing signs on hills)

CROSSWALK CREEPER
(can't resist cheating on the take-off)

WIDE-SWEEPING TERN
(watch out for him on curves)

ONE-WINGED ROOF CLUTCHER
(disdains two-handed driving)

HEAD-TURNING CHATTERBIRD
(seldom bothers to keep his eyes front)

ADDLEPATED HONKER
(always sounding off without reason)

HALF-BLIND LOON
(a dirty windshield is his trade-mark)

MIGRATORY WEAVERBIRD
(constantly jumping lanes in heavy traffic)

RUFFLE-FENDERED TAIL-GATER
(he bears the marks of too-close contact)

FOOTBALL

by HERB STAMMLER

This season we were fortunate to have a power-packed backfield; however, we lacked a veteran line up front.

In the first game of the season, Assumption Raiders, who were the top dogs for the last few seasons, were toppled by the Tech Roughriders. Then, in another game, Walkerville, a dangerous threat for the championship, also fell to the Techmen. With a few more victories, the team managed to make the playoffs. However, in the playoff game we were rudely upset by Kennedy.

The tremendous all 'round play of Don Matthew placed him on the all-city team. Ray Trudell won the "Most Valuable Player" award, while Gary Fisher, an outstanding bulwark of the front line, won the "Most Improved Player" award.

On behalf of the student body, I would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Ryan, Mr. Phillip and Mr. McLean, for devoting their time to push and guide this team.

PRESENTATION OF THE U.N. FLAG TO W. D. LOWE

Class TK has been studying the United Nations as part of their Social Studies Programme with Mr. Popkey as the teacher. It was suggested and finally decided by the class to donate a United Nations Flag to W. D. Lowe Technical School. A collection was made among TK students. On April 10, 1962, Jacques Demarais (left), TK class representative, presented the flag to John Sartori (right), president of the student body, Tech United. Mr. McGee, Principal, accepted the flag from John Sartori, to be placed in the school on display in a prominent position. This flag will be a constant reminder to all as a symbol and hope of world peace.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

by JOE CZACHOR

First of all I would like to thank all the teachers and students who made our dances possible. The hops were great from the beginning of the season right to the end. The dance floor was packed to the limit, every dance, especially after the basketball games. It was the most successful season since the girls left W. D. Lowe. On behalf of the other members of the Social Committee I would like to thank Mr. Magda, who never let us down, and put up with us to the end.

BASKETBALL

by JOHN SARTORI, 12C

This year the school basketball team pushed its way to a three-way tie for second place, with Corpus and Kennedy. Herman, the undefeated team, took the championship. Under the guidance of their coach, Mr. Janisse, players such as Baggio, McLellan, Czachor, Povoledo, and Talbot put forth a great effort and beat such teams as Patterson, Assumption, Corpus Christi, Kennedy, Commerce, and Massey. Baggio, one of the city's star players, made the second all-city team and will be back again next year.

W. D. Lowe in the past has not had a Grade 13 which is probably why it is so difficult to win in many sports. In a few years we will have Grade 13 which will probably improve our sports a great deal.

COVER STORY

This year's cover, designed by Robert Borg, 11B, is an attempt to explore overall design in a contemporary manner. The boys of W. D. Lowe should be proud of the spirit this cover represents.

A second cover, designed by Fred Granger, 12D, has a similar spirit, so we are reproducing it, in part, on this page.

BILL BAND, 12D

GARY LARKING, 11B

PACKAGING ASSOCIATION OF CANADA AWARDS

Each year the Packaging Association of Canada sponsors a nation-wide contest, devised to stimulate interest in packaging. This year Bill Band of 12D, and Gary Larking of 11B, both of whom are majoring in art, won individual awards for their designs of tea boxes. Considering the fact that there were 103 entrants from across Canada, this was a very noteworthy achievement for the two youths, as well as for the head of the school's Art Department, Mr. Weir.

Upon graduation, Bill plans to enter the Ontario College of Art in Toronto. Gary still has another year left at W. D. Lowe, and is undecided regarding his future.

FRED GRANGER, 12D

RETIRING TEACHER

MR. ANDERSON

At the end of the school year Mr. Wm. Anderson, head of the Electrical Department, will retire. Born in Scotland, Mr. Anderson received his electrical training at Glasgow Tech. When he came to Canada he was employed by Westinghouse Company in Toronto and by Johnston Turner Electric in Windsor. He taught at Timmins for two years and returned to Windsor to teach at W. D. Lowe, becoming head of the Electrical Department. He has served on the Windsor Utilities Commission for twelve years. His many years of teaching experience and industrial knowledge will be greatly missed. He and his family will retire in Florida.

MR. J. STECHER, former pupil and now teacher in the Electrical Department.

CONGRATULATIONS TO RIVERSIDE

MR. C. N. COLE

Mr. C. N. Cole, a native of Windsor, graduated from the Ontario Technical Teacher Training College in Hamilton, after having acquired experience in local architectural offices. He joined the W. D. Lowe staff in September, 1930 as an architectural drafting teacher, later to become head of the Drafting Department. He was in charge of the Bugle Band for a few years, and has been Teacher Treasurer of Technical United for many years. Architectural graduates of this school are to be found in all areas of the architectural and allied fields in the Windsor Area. The students of W. D. Lowe Technical School, especially the drafting students, extend their congratulations to Mr. Cole who this year will end his long teaching career here to become Technical Director of the new Riverside Composite High School.

George Krakana, Irwin Sinclair and John Owen were the active members in the W.S.S.A. meet held at W. D. Lowe. George came first on the high bar, the only first for Tech., while John Owen placed third on the rings, high bar and long horse. This is Irwin's first year, and he is doing very well for a beginner. This school hopes to see more active students participate in the gymnastic team, for this activity is a rapidly growing one.

As this edition of The Towers goes to press, steel is rising on the back campus.

A new wing will provide two machine shops, one additional drafting room, a metallurgical laboratory, a typing room, a small motors and appliance shop, a building construction shop and classrooms. At the same time in the existing building, new welding shops are being built and the two remaining machine shops are being renovated.

These changes and additions, financed by Federal and Provincial Governments, will provide a valuable extension to the facilities for Technical Education in this community.

Organized last year after a lapse of nearly nine years, the Lowe Camera Club now numbers fifteen boys in its ranks, of whom eight are constantly active.

Last year a number of pictures were taken for the yearbook but this year the school organization was responsible for all pictures. While some of the work is still amateurish there is enough improvement to encourage the youthful photographers.

Headquarters for the Camera Club is a room used for many years by caretakers as an equipment storage room. In the past two years the dirt and rubbish has been cleared out, photographic equipment and supplies brought in and gradually the "darkroom" is developing a professional air.

Much of the credit for the work of the Camera Club this year must go to its hard-working president, Carl Pardy, an electrical major in 11E. Carl has put in uncounted hours helping younger members of the club and processing the photography work for Tech.

It is hoped that the Grade 9 members will be back next year with more experience and more ideas and that other Grade 9 boys will turn out to help with the work. Few activities around the school offer the same opportunities for pleasant work at a hobby that will be useful and enjoyable in future years.

A salesman joined the police force. After several months a friend asked, "How do you like being a policeman?" "The pay is good and hours are satisfactory," he answered, "and best of all, the customer is always wrong."

A shopper is a woman who can hurry through a department store aisle 8 inches wide without brushing against piled-up glassware; then drive home and knock the doors off a 12 foot garage.
